Update on Our Latest Activities

Arete President James Meier walks up the dock after completing the 2.8-mile Great Hudson River Swim (right). At left, dozens of “whitecaps” roil the water as the swimmers get off to a rousing start. For Meier this race was a tune-up for a 7.8-mile one in September.

Rigorous preparation, versatility, and persistence guide Arete in all the work we do.

Our current roster of clients includes three technology centers; two government agencies; a Catholic Archdiocese and a Jewish synagogue; a major university; one national organization; two citywide groups, and a new community-based organization in the Bronx:

- Archdiocese of New York: Library Connections
- Community School District 10: Facilities Planning and Zoning
- “I Have A Dream”® Foundation: Evaluation
- Learning Leaders: Research Evaluation
- NYC Housing Authority: Resident Election Monitoring
- Brown University: Demonstration and Dissemination Project
- Early Steps: Strategic Assessment
- St. Raymond’s Community Outreach: Planning
- TLC @The Armory: Evaluation of Technology Center
- Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corporation, RITE Center: Evaluation of Technology Center
- Harlem Renaissance Community Technology Center: Evaluation
- Temple Emanu-El: Skirball Center Planning

Other Arete Adventures & Milestones....

- Elizabeth Crownfield, research associate, has become engaged to John Edminster.
- Will Karczewski, research assistant, will soon depart for a semester in London.
- Linda Braun, associate, has relocated to the Upper West Side.

Are We There Yet?
Kayakers provided guidance, and perhaps inspiration, to participants in yesterday's Hudson River Swim. About 100 swimmers tried the 2.8 miles, from the 79th Street Boat Basin to Pier 62 in Hudson River Park.
